V.   Read the following passage carefully and answer the following questions.

A businessman wanted to make a journey to another town. He took ten servants with him to carry the goods. He was a kind man. He asked one of his servants who was the weakest of all to choose the lightest load to carry. The servant thanked his master, but insisted on carrying the biggest load which contained bread. He picked up the load cheerfully and the journey began.

During the journey, whenever they stopped for a rest, they all ate some of the bread. Thus, everyday the load became lighter. So, when they reached near their destination, the servant had nothing to carry. The rich man was very pleased with his servant.
